○	In writing class today, Juan read one of his stories. It was wonderful. After class, the teacher invited me <sup>to</sup> read a story in class next week. However, I asked her not to call on me next week because I'm having trouble getting ideas. She said me not to worry, and she said to wait for two weeks. Then I talked to Juan, and I asked him tell me the source for your ideas. He said that they came from his dreams, and he told me keep a dream journal for ideas. He invited me "to read some of his journal." It was very interesting, so I asked him to give me some tips on remembering dreams. He said getting a good night's sleep because the longer dreams come after a long period of sleep. He also tell me to keep my journal by the bed and to write as soon as I wake up. He said to no move from the sleeping position. He also told me to don't think about the day at first. (If you think about your day, you might forget your dreams.) Most important—every night he tells himself that to remember his dreams tomorrow morning.
